CLOSES DOORS

Ohio County Bank at Hartford Files a Deed of Assignment.

Hartford, Ky., Jan. 26.—The Ohio County Bank, of this city, filed a deed of assignment last night naming A. E. Pate, assistant cashier, as assignee. It is said the failure is attributed to the inability of the bank to realize property on its past due paper.

Depositors will be paid in full when the assets are converted into cash, it is declared, and the loss, if any, will fall on the stockholders.

Capt. S. K. Cox, the pioneer banker of this place, was the president of the institution, and he and his immediate family own practically all of the stock.

Capt. Cox assigns old age and failing health as the moving cause prompting him to liquidate the affairs of the bank. Its capital stock was $15,000 with deposits amounting to about $50,000.

FEW WORDS FROM MR. WHEELER OF SANTA FE.

Dear Mr. Babbage: Enclosed find $2.75 for Louisville Herald and The News. One year ago today I left old Kentucky for this place and can say for Santa Fe county, also the city, that it's the oldest new county in the U. S. It's getting Americanized slowly; majority of the people here are Mexicans, and they are 100 years behind the times, though some are fine people.

Nineteen years ago the first brick house was built here, before that all were log or mud houses. The old San Miguel church, over 300 years old, is still in use.

I have not been sick a minute since my arrival here, not even a bad cold. This is a great health resort; we are 7,000 feet high, climate fine. Where water can be had for irrigation fine crops are raised. Everything grown in Kentucky, except potatoes and tomatoes will grow here. Finest fruits of all kinds in coloring and flavors, rival those of California.

Ranchers (farmers) here, if they would work and manage like they do back East, all would get rich. One does not feel the heat and cold here like in Kentucky, owing to low humidity. Lots of people live in tents. I room in one and like it fine.

There is a place near here called Sunmount or Tent City—a health resort.

I expect to go back to old Kentucky, but not to stay, as I like here far better.
J. C. Wheeler.
Box 384, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

In the Sunshine.

Dear Mr. Babbage: Enclosed find $1 for my renewal of The News. I am in Florida, the land of sunshine, but can't do without my home paper. Mr. and Mrs. Bowmer spent yesterday here. We had an auto ride. How we like to meet our home people. With best wishes, your friend,
Lucy E. Temple.
DeLand, Fla., January 22.

"You can't be too particular whom you marry," said a fellow the other day, "if you do you won't get off."

BATTLES IN DOMESTIC LIFE.

Davis and Hashfield Lose Their Wives—Laurence Whitter Arrested—Town Helps the Deserted.

DAVIS WANTS TO GO TO TEXAS

A lively domestic battle was ended in the police court Friday morning when Laurence Whitter and Mrs. Hashfield appeared before Judge Wills. Curt Hashfield swore to an affidavit for Whitter and his wife and Judge Wills issued the warrants for them. Whitter was fined $1 and costs for disorderly conduct. Judge Wills dismissed the case of Mrs. Hashfield on the grounds that she leave town immediately. She left.

Laurence Whitter said he was not guilty of the charge, and that he took his meals with the Hashfields for charity's sake. Fishing was poor, and he thought his board would keep starvation away from Hashfield's door, but his good intentions were misconstrued. Hashfield, though wifeless, is getting along very well. Some time ago the town gave him a load of coal and he gave a "nigger" half of it to carry it in for him.

Henry Davis is also having a siege of fisherman's luck. Mrs. Davis has left him. They lived down on river front here last summer and seemed supremely happy with their six little Davises. Mr. Davis prayed in prayer meeting at the Methodist church and nearly every evening, except Wednesday and Sunday, he and Mrs. Davis could be seen on the river skiff-riding in the moonlight and little did one dream their smooth sailing would ever be disturbed. Mr. Davis and family have been living in West Point this winter and he came here last week to get money from his friends to take the children to Texas. Hegot $17. But $17 and no wife is awful, he said. Mrs. Davis is a pretty woman, young and as smart as she can be.

GREGORY CASE REVERSED FOR NEW TRIAL

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26.—The case of the L. H. & St. L. railroad against Emmett Gregory's administrator, from Breckenridge county, was reversed by the Court of Appeals to-day and a new trial ordered, though the court says on the evidence before it, there should have been a verdict for the railroad. Gregory fell from the train after it came to a sudden stop on a trestle near the station at Cloverport, and it was alleged there was ice on the car steps, causing him to slip and fall. The jury gave him $6,000. Judge Nunn dissented.

SMART BROS. MAKING RAPID PROGRESS.

The firm known as Smart Brothers, owned by Simon and Scott Smart, have lately purchased four registered Schropshire ewes, paying $100 for them. These young men should be congratulated for bringing such fine stock to their county. While they are known as "the poultry men of Breckenridge" they have something to be proud of in hogs and sheep.

The Smart Brothers are very progressive and are making quite a success of their poultry and farming enterprises on their farm near Cloverport.

MASTERSON HOTEL LICKED BY FLAMES.

The Riverside Hotel at Troy, Ind., owned by James D. Masterson, was damaged last Saturday morning about 2 o'clock by having the roof burned off and the interior scorched and damaged by water. The large livery and feed barn adjoining the hotel, was totally destroyed.—Cannelton Enquirer.

Eastland Sunday-School

The residents of Eastland have organized a Sunday School and will meet every Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the office of the Miller Brick Plant. The meetings give promise of much interest and pleasure to the large circle of young people of Eastland.

Which?

A bride remarked immediately after her wedding, "My troubles are over now," and her friend who had been married thirty years heard her and replied: "They have just begun!"

PIE AUCTION FOR PREACHER.

Church Pays Parson According to the Worth of Their Pies Gets $7.25 For Twelve Days Preaching.

GOSPEL CHEAPER THAN HATS.

A Cloverport preacher preached the gospel twelve nights in a church near town and only got $7.25. The members gave a pie supper to raise the money for the parson. The pies were auctioned and one brought a dollar and a quarter. So the auctioneer kept the dollar and gave the parson the quarter, for he said a pie wasn't worth more than 25 cents. The preacher said it has almost come to pass that deliverers of the gospel will starve to death if the people don't pay their ministers better. Women pay more for their hats in one season than they do for their preacher the whole year.

Revenue Agent Whittinghill Files Many Suits. Property Valued At $11,000,000 on Which Taxes are Sought to be Collected

Mr. J. P. Whittinghill, revenue agent for Kentucky, returned home Friday night for an extended trip in the eastern part of the state where he has filed a big batch of suits to collect back taxes on property amounting to over $11,000,000. The suits were brought mostly against owners of coal mines and railroads, and were filed in Whiteley, Floyd, Harlan, Knox, Shelby and Fayette counties.

Mr. Whittinghill says that at Williamsburg he filed twenty suits and while the county attorney was gone to his dinner, some one entered his office and stole ten of the petitions and they have never been recovered.—Owensboro Enquirer.

Guilty of Manslaughter.

Elizabethtown, Ky., Jan. 28.—Roy Ammons and James Pate were found guilty of manslaughter at Brandenburg and sentenced to from two to twenty-one years in the penitentiary. They were accused of killing Charles Beard, at Big Spring, last August, and the shooting was alleged to have taken place after a crap game had been in progress. The jury which considered the case was out all day before bringing in a verdict.

FOR FREE TRADE WITH CANADA.

Taft Submits Seciprocity Agreement to Both Houses of Congress—Cheapen Food Prices.

ARTICLES ON FREE LIST.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The Administration's reciprocity agreement with Canada was submitted to Congress today with a special message from the President urging its prompt enactment into law. The agreement was presented concurrently to the Dominion Parliament in Ottawa and within a few days bills will be introduced in the legislative body of each Government designed to make the terms of the agreement effective. The concurrent legislation will obviate the necessity of any treaty on the subject between the two countries.

Generally speaking the agreement opens the markets of the United States to Canada's leading agricultural products, notably wheat and other grain, and also to her dairy products, eggs and poultry, fish, sheep, cattle and other live animals. Her rough lumber also is admitted duty free to the United States, as are her print paper and wood pulp and several other raw materials. The agreement in regard to print paper and wood pulp, however, is subject to favorable action by the Provincial Governments of Quebec and Ontario in removing restrictions placed by them upon the exportation of pulp wood.

In return for these concessions Canada takes down the bars altogether on cotton seed oil and American fruits and some other products, and grants reduced duties on agricultural implements and other manufactured articles.

ARTICLES ON THE FREE LIST.

Here are some of the more important items in the reciprocal free list contained in the agreement:

Live animals, cattle, horses, mules, swine, sheep and lambs; poultry, rye, wheat, oats, barley, buckwheat, corn or maize, hay and straw, fresh vegetables, including potatoes; fresh and dried fruits, dairy products, eggs, honey, cottonseed oil, fish of all kinds; seal, herring, whale and other fish oil; salt, mineral waters, timber, hewn, sided or squared otherwise than by sawing; sawed boards, plank and other lumber; mica, feldspar, asbestos, glycerine, crude; talc, sulphate of soda, extract of hemlock bark, brass in bars and rods, rolled iron or steel sheets, crucible cast steel wire, galvanized iron or steel wire, type casting and type setting machines, barbed fencing wire, coke, pulpwood and print paper.

Even Society Has Its

Use in The World.

When you consider that there are several papers in the land devoted to nothing save the chronicles of society folk—papers which thrive and prosper—you must pause and laugh, not at Society, but those who perpetually read of its doings and chuckle over its grossly misreported escapades. That "set" is not worthless which supports a small army of writers and editors, printers and proofreaders, newsdealers and paper manufacturers. A playwright once told us that he had never until recently considered how much machinery the production of one of his plays set in motion, and how humble he felt at the thought of the number of people his brain children supported—actors, ushers, scene shifters, ticket sellers and so on, far down the line. And the giving of a ball in the season starts many another ball a-rolling. It puts money into caterers' pockets and you never heard the florists and cab drivers complaining. So even Society, brainless as it may be, has a certain use in the world, and many of us have not only talked of it but written of it—for some of the very lucre we condemn it for possessing.—Charles Hanson Towne in Smart Set.

"I am glad to say that, in my opinion, there is a better feeling towards the L. H. & St. L. R. R. Company now than there was a few years ago."—L. J. I.

KEEP AN EYE ON MR. G. HOG.

He is Scheduled to Arrive Next Thursday and Will Issue His Six Weeks' Weather Proclamation.

FEBRUARY 2nd IS HIS DAY.

The fellow who said that life was just one d— thing after another, must have had his mind on the hog. When it isn't one kind it is another. Just about the time we get over our worried about the price on the pork hog, we have to face the ground hog, who handles all kinds of brands of baled weather and we have to take it just as he gives it to us. We all remember what this little fellow did for us last year—snow on the 1st of May and frost on the 1st of June—and the ground hog did it. Next Tuesday he will be back on his annual jaunt to take our measures for the six weeks to follow. And what he says goes. We are not seeking to discourage anybody, but we hope for the best. Worse things have happened and are happening right along, for verily is not both the state legislature and the national congress in session right now? And if that isn't just one d— thing after another, then we have missed a link somewhere.—Cannelton Enquirer.

Will Cut the Acreage

Leitchfield, Ky., Jan. 30.—A mass convention of the Farmers' Union and other tobacco growers of Grayson county was held in this city, and a co-operate agreement was reached that just ten thousand tobacco plants should be set out to the farm, which means that about half a crop will be planted.

Some More "Vanadium."

Ernest Ford, one of the "Vanadium Steel" salesmen, received a letter from L. S. Powers, at Minneapolis yesterday, asking that a power of attorney be signed and sent him by all of the local salesmen, in order that he might collect the $300 deposit and salary due each. He says that there isn't a shadow of a doubt as to his ultimate recovery of the entire amount, all of which everyone who knows Mr. Powers has believed from the start. No one believes he was connected with a "skin game" except a few who are always ready to jump on a man when absent.—Hawesville Clarion.

LEA STILL PROHIBITION-IST EVEN IF A SENATOR

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 26.—Declaring that as a member of the United States Senate, he will use his vote and influence in an effort to enact a law prohibiting the interstate shipment of liquor into "dry" territory, Senator Luke Lea assured the convention of the Tennessee Anti-Saloon league today that his advance in politics has not served to change his prohibition beliefs.

Mr. Young in Atlanta

Ode Young spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Skillman and Miss Eva Young. Mr. Young has just returned from Atlanta, Ga., from a business trip. While in the Southern city he met many former Union countians.—Morganfield News—Uniontown Telegram.

SEVEN INDICTMENTS

Are Returned Against A. C. Crouch, Former Cashier of Bank at Ekron

Brandenburg, Ky., Jan. 30.—A. C. Crouch, former cashier of the Bank at Ekron, which closed its doors recently, was indicted by the Meade county grand jury on seven counts, alleging embezzlement, making false entries on the books of the bank, receiving deposits after knowing the bank to be insolvent, obtaining money under false pretenses and mutilating the bank's books. His bond was fixed at $3,500, which he gave.

S. C. Lewis, who succeeded Crouch as cashier was indicted on eleven counts. He gave bond for $4,100.

ARRRESTED ON CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

Brandenburg, Ky., Jan. 27.—S. C. Lewis, who was in charge of the First State Bank at Ekron, this county, when it failed about one month ago, was arrested this afternoon charged with embezzlement of the bank's funds. The grand jury had indicted him on three counts.

Lewis, it is said, secured the stock of A. C. Crouch, former cashier of the bank, about November 1, and took charge of the bank December 3. Crouch was held over to the grand jury at his examining trial, held here last Thursday.

A. C. Lewis is a brother of H. H. Lewis, formerly cashier of the State Bank at Centertown, Ohio county, which failed about a week ago. He is a native of Owen county and tonight is under guard of a deputy sheriff awaiting the arrival of his father, W. M. Lewis, of Sparta, who he says will get here in the morning to go on his bond, which has been fixed at $2,500.

America And China.

"America and China are now bound together," writes Frederick McCormick in an article on "How America Got Into Manchuria," in the February "Century," "first by common recognition of the necessity to China of independence, integrity of territory and jurisdiction, and freedom of development and trade, to the promotion of which America is committed; and, second by reason of common rewards and rebuffs sustained in promoting China's policy and America's diplomacy. Together with the invasion of the Hukuang loan, the imperial sanction to the Kin-chau-Algun contract completes America's entry into the Chinese empire. It supplies the desired basis, and displays the unprecedented opportunity achieved for American commerce and trade and for American influence in eastern Asia by President Taft and Secretary Knox within the short period of two years."

ATTEND THE GOLDEN JUBILEE OF MISSIONS.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Piggott, of Irvington, attended the Missionary Jubilee in Louisville last week and were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods. Mrs. Piggott has recently written a most timely article on the Sunday School Graded Union. It has been printed in folder form, and she will gladly send it to any one gratis on request.

REFORMED BREAD TOO SUCCESSFUL

Old English Squire Deluged With Orders For Loaves.

BEREFT OF PEACE AND MIND.

Little Stone Mill Turned Out Whole Meal Loaf Like That Eaten Before Days of False Teeth and Indigestion, and Entire United Kingdom Wanted Samples.

Sir Oswald Mosley, master of Rolleston Hall, Burton-on-Trent, England, has found himself suddenly bereft of his wonted peace and his large estate overwhelmed with the clamorous importunities of the world.

Sir Oswald recently announced his intention to start a national bread reform. The newfangled methods of milling and the artificial non-nutritious white bread, according to the Rolleston squire, were ruining the teeth of people and undermining their health. He purposed, therefore, with his little stone mill and the aid of the baker of Rolleston village to produce a whole meal loaf of the saving perfection of English bread in the days prior to false teeth, indigestion and appendicitis.

Stream of Messenger Boys.

For the first day Sir Oswald confined his purpose to supplying sample loaves to the villagers about Rolleston Hall. Then, urged by outsiders, he consented to forward a sample loaf to any body in the country who sent three pence (6 cents). Scarcely had the announcement been made when telegraph boys began to stream to Rolleston Hall, and the next post brought the biggest mail ever seen on the estate.

Sir Oswald had a shooting party at his house and wished to go out a little, but this became impossible, and the guests were compelled to shoot alone, while the astounded squire was bottled up with a flood of telegrams and letters asking for whole meal bread baked in the old way.

Compelled to Cancel Offer.

After a few hours' struggle, during every moment of which they say the squire became more perplexed and distracted, he dispatched telegrams to the newspapers withdrawing his offer, saying that the little stone mill and the village baker already had more than they could do in five years.

Sir Oswald and a clerical staff are busy returning money to the great landowners who wished to start similar enterprises on their own estates and to health societies, millers, bakers, doctors and all sorts and conditions of men.

However, the master of Rolleston, who is one of the few really typical John Bulls left in the country, with saved off top hat, mutton chop whiskers, broad face, short, thick body, knickers and top boots, hopes eventually to help others carry bread reform to success.

FRENCH HEELS RUIN FEET.

Spinal Curvature Another Phase, According to Minneapolis.

Dr. Charles H. Keene of Minneapolis in a public statement says that the high French heels which high school girls wear are the cause of deformed feet that have to be cured by physical culture, and therefore such heels are to be barred from the school.

Dr. Keene will have the physical instructor in the high school find out how many girls have curvature of the spine. He has found many boys in the Minneapolis schools so afflicted. He attributed the prevalence of curvature of the spine to bad posture, both in sitting and standing, and to faulty customs and to improper footwear such as French heeled shoes.

BISMARCK MEMOIRS HELD UP.

Volume Criticising Present Kaiser Secret Until His Death.

It is announced from Berlin that the third volume of Bismarck's memoirs will not be published during the present Kaiser's lifetime. The first two volumes were published some years ago and contained many interesting revelations concerning political events of the period of Bismarck's official career and many side lights on the history of those times.

The third volume is known to contain an unfavorable account of the present Kaiser, written in connection with the circumstances which led to Bismarck's dismissal from office in 1890, two years after William II's accession to the throne, when the Iron Chancellor conceived a fierce hostility toward the young, impetuous monarch.

Some uneasiness has been caused at the German court from time to time by rumors that Bismarck's heirs intended to publish this volume in the near future. The announcement now made is intended to banish such fears and make it clear that Bismarck's judgment on William II. will not be given to the world during the Kaiser's reign.

A lazy liver leads to chronic dyspepsia and constipation—weakens the whole system. Doan's Regulets (25c per box) correct the liver, tone the stomach and cure constipation.

HENDERSON ROUTE NOTES.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.

In the recent class up for examination in the mechanical department of the Henderson Route for promotion to the position of engineer, was Mr. Preston Ford, a young man, while young in years, made an average which would do credit to the best. Mr. Ford is an adopted Breckenridge county boy and the News wishes him all the success which it has a just right to believe will be his.

Hall's corner residents are the only ones of this town who were in any way aware of the fact for quite a while that this young man was given a seat on the whistle side, owing to Mr. Ford's modesty in weaving his own laurel wreath, and they would have been as tardy as the News if it had not been for the shrill blast of the whistle in passing the given place, said blast not being necessary according to standard code of whistle signals, which naturally caused attention to be drawn to the train doing such whistling. It was the people at this intersection who first noticed the modest and unassuming Mr. Ford in his new position, and the Breckenridge News' best wish is that the young Mr. Ford will at all times accredit himself with the honor and responsibility bestowed and imposed by his superiors.

Marion Denton was off from the telegraph office at the shop Wednesday, the first time in two years. He certainly

HANNIBAL, MO., TO HONOR HUMORIST MARK TWAIN

Missouri Will Join With City Where He Passed His Boyhood to Add to Nation's Tributes.

Park, Which Embraces Cave, Made Famous by Tom Sawyer and Injun Jo, Will Be Memorial.

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

It was Jesus of Nazareth who said in an age when prophets were many, "A prophet is not without honor save in his own country and in his own house." In all reverence it may be averred that the reservation contained in the last clause of this saying is not applicable to Mark Twain. Here was a prophet with honor not only throughout the world, but to a far more intensified degree in his own country and in his own house. Even in the house where he lived in boyhood and in the town and state which may be called "his own country" Mark Twain was not without honor during his lifetime, and now that he has passed from earth as a living presence his memory is to be honored and perpetuated in tangible form.

The state of Missouri and the city of Hannibal, which lies upon the Missouri bank of the mighty Mississippi, are joining hands just now to do honor to their prophet, who once good naturedly resented the characterization of "the first Missourian" on the ground that he was "not so old as all that." Even without such tangible evidences of the former residence of Mark Twain in Hannibal's midst, the city where he spent his boyhood, which is the scene of many episodes in his most famous books and which he loved as a father loves a child, will be always a Mecca for the pilgrims who elect to worship at the shrine of the creator of Tom Sawyer, Injun Jo, Huckleberry Finn and other fictional characters who are almost as much alive as is little Tommy Tucker around the corner from your home or the boy who delivers your beefsteak at the back door.

State May Build Monument.

Frank Sosey, member of the Missouri legislature from Marion county, in which Mark Twain was born, has introduced a bill to appropriate $10,000 same Mississippi river and others abutting other American streams. But to the Hannibal resident there is only one Lovers' Leap, and that is the ragged, jagged, rocky, but precipitous and picturesque bluff that rises sharp and sheer 265 feet above the level of the river, with railroad trains thundering and factory machines whirling in the narrow strip below on the very bank of the stream.

This Hannibal Lovers' Leap is distinct from all the others. Each has its legend of the pretty Indian maiden and her dusky lover who hurled themselves from the edge of the bluff because pater or mater or both forbade the bans. Hannibal's leap is different because it is associated with Mark Twain's early life and with some of his most popular works.

Shrunk With Age.

The present writer well remembers, the very last time Mark Twain visited his home, how the humorist lay in bed at his hotel in his white nightgown, smoking a black cigar and looking from his southern window through the matchless glory of a June morning down across the gorge of Bear creek to a certain bluff that jutted up from the river's edge. He gazed and gazed and was silent. Finally he said, slowly and with perfect pathos:

"I'm looking for Lovers' Leap, and I reckon that must be it; but, oh, how much smaller it is than it was when I was a boy."

Then he smoked and smoked and was silent. I stole softly out of his room. That was the only thing I ever stole in Hannibal, but I felt that I was justified.

And so it is this Lovers' Leap, the one that was beloved by Mark Twain through more than threescore years of his wandering life, which is to be the arch and acme of the new Mark Twain park. This world man, who with her 22,642 inhabitants—10,000 more than she had in 1900—wants the cave to be named for Mark Twain, so we might just as well yield to the inevitable.

As a matter of fact, Hannibal is becoming more and more Mark Twained as the years pass. The shanty house where lived the original of Huckleberry Finn was burned down shortly after the June of 1902, when Mark Twain made his final pilgrimage there to. But there remain still several claimants to the honor—if it be that—of being the original of Huck. Hannibal also is full of the original Tom Sawyer, though Mark Twain himself once guardedly admitted that he was Tom. There is also, or was a few years ago, one "original" of Injun Jo, who charged me 50 cents for the privilege of photographing him with his hat on and a dollar with his hat off. He made a handsome income for many years as the original of Injun Jo. It was not Mark Twain, but another great American humorist, who remarked that the American people like to be humbugged.

Mark Twain's Narrow Escape.

On that last visit to Hannibal Mark Twain was nearly killed by the people—with kindness. Living on one square meal a day to ward off his ancient enemy, dyspepsia, he was invited to about twenty breakfasts, luncheons and dinners daily during the week he spent there. He found it necessary, in order to preserve his life a few years longer, to appoint several gastronomical proxies. One of his understudies in this line, I can assure the good housewives of Hannibal, was founderered for ten days afterward and really never yet has quite regained the joyful appetite he possessed in earlier youth.

Hannibal, in truth, is the home of good cooks and generous hospitality. Judge Sydney J. Roy, secretary and literary light of the Commercial club, has written: "It is a city of 'homes.' People 'live' rather than reside or board in this river metropolis." Commercially growing by leaps and bounds, proud of her shoe factories and her cement works and railroad shops, Hannibal's champion leap always will be Lovers' Leap, and her bounds will be set only by the fame of her most famous citizen, who moved in as a boy and went back as an old man after he had made himself world noted under an assumed name. It was something worth while to hear those old fellows calling him Sam, and I verily believe that until that last pathetic visit "home" he had forgotten that his real name was Clemens.

KAISER SPOILED HIS TRADE.

Wanted Only Auto Horn in Existence Like Sample.

An orchestral instrument maker of Markneukirchen, in Saxony, has discovered that the patronage of the German emperor is not an unmixed blessing. Three years ago he invented an automobile horn which sounded four notes. The first one he finished in pure silver and presented to the kaiser.

The kaiser was so delighted with the new instrument that he gave immediate orders forbidding anybody else to have one like it. The inventor found this compliment too much of a business drawback to enjoy for more than a very brief spell.

For the last three years he has been doing his utmost to get permission to manufacture the instrument for the general public. He has just succeeded in securing a special decree from the federal council of the empire whereby motor horns of four notes may be employed by motorists when touring in the country, but it continues to constitute a misdemeanor to use such a horn in towns or cities, where it will remain the exclusive privilege of the kaiser.

The king of Saxony recently outbid the emperor by ordering the Markneukirchen manufacturer to construct for him a horn with six notes. Princess August Wilhelm, one of the kaiser's daughters-in-law, has a motor horn which performs a melodious theme.

for the erection of a monument to the humorist and philosopher in Hannibal. There was also on foot until recently a movement to have the state purchase the boyhood home of Mark Twain on Hill street, Hannibal, but the local committee having that matter in charge has decided that, inasmuch as the house is not a property of any considerable real estate value, the people of Hannibal themselves should take care of that and preserve it, letting the state's share be the memorial provided for in Mr. Sosey's bill.

Just what form this memorial will take is as yet a matter to be considered, though the sentiment seems to favor a monument, with a statue of the white haired author, to be placed either in the small city park in Hannibal or in the new Mark Twain park which is to be created by the city.

The Commercial club of Hannibal has just acquired by purchase eighteen acres of land, which includes the famous Lovers' Leap and about half a mile of the picturesque bluffs rising above the Mississippi just south of the city. This tract is to be deeded to the city and to be held perpetually for park purposes. Now, there are lovers' leaps and lovers' leaps. Personally I know of several along this had sailed every sea and steamboated every river of consequence, said that in his opinion there is no finer river view in the world than that which is to be enjoyed from the top of Lovers' Leap or from Inspiration point, a similar height just north of Hannibal. While no doubt the Hannibal people have their own preference as to the location of the Mark Twain monument, may not one suggest that it be placed on the summit of Lovers' Leap, facing the river he knew and loved so well and whose fame he has made immortal in his book which may be called the biography of the Mississippi?

Down to Mark Twain's Cave.

You pass beneath Lovers' Leap when you drive or trudge down the yellow, dusty road to Mark Twain's cave. People used to call it Tom Sawyer's cave, because it was in that remarkable freak of nature, a narrow passage a mile long underground, with "pockets" where one easily might get lost, that Tom Sawyer and his tiny sweetheart were imprisoned for days, while all of Hannibal, at that time only a matter of a thousand population or so, hunted high and low for them. Hannibal of today, however,

THE CANADIAN AGREEMENT.

It is a pleasure heartily to commend the administration in any effort to mitigate the evils of the present tariff. The Canadian treaty is a step forward, not a long step, but, because the first step, an important one.

The commercial and industrial relations between the United States and Canada ought to be more intimate than they have been heretofore. There is a vast field for development in Canada, and it is a development in the benefits of which America can share if America is wise. To erect a high and impassable tariff wall, an artificial boundary between these two countries, is a mistake from any standpoint and it is a wrong done alike to the American producer and the American consumer.

An effort will be made to defeat this treaty by the fallacious contention that the free exchange of agricultural products across the line will injure the American farmer.

The American farmer has long been deluded by the pretense that he was protected. The prices of American agricultural products are fixed in the open markets of the world, and they will be so fixed as long as the American farmer has any surplus to sell.

When he has no surplus to sell, then the American consumer will have to go to other nations for his food supply. To exclude food, then, would be to organize starvation into a system.

The American farmer is taxed upon all he buys for the benefit of the robber barons, so-called, who have grown rich beyond the dreams of avarice under the protection of an extortionate tariff. The American farmer pays higher prices for everything he buys and he knows these higher prices are due to the tariff, due to protection.

Then he is deluded by the pretense that the tariff on wheat and on cotton and oats and on meat will work to his benefit just as the tariff on iron and steel works to the benefit of the Steel Trust. The situation is altogether different. The tariff does not shut out farm produce to any extent and only then from small local areas. The price of wheat is not affected by our Canadian tariff, nor is the price of meat, because we produce a surplus and sell this surplus abroad. Prices are fixed abroad except where we have a tariff within the tariff wall; organized trusts, that control the market, crushing the farmer when they have to buy from him and crushing him again when they sell to him.

The hope of the protectionist is that the farmers will rally to the support of the tariff; that they will reject this Canadian treaty and reject every attempt made to modify the exactions of the tariff.

Free-traders and protectionists alike, influenced by local interests, will protest against this treaty. The free-traders will say they do not want free trade by piecemeal; they do not want free trade with Canada or any approach to it, unless they can have free trade with the world.

Whether we want free trade or not, we are not apt to get it for a generation. What we do want is a lower tariff and a lessening of the tariff exactions. We ought to have surely free trade with Hawaii, the Philippines, Porto Rico, because these are our possessions. We ought to have free trade with Cuba, Mexico and Canada, for these are our neighbors and friends.

These are dreams for the future. In the meantime let us get what we can, here a little and there a little, through annexation of territory, through reciprocity treaties, through the abolition of admittedly absurd items in the tariff and the general modification of other items.

In submitting this treaty to Congress the president puts upon that body the responsibility for action just as Mr. Cleveland did when he submitted an arbitration treaty with Great Britain to the Senate and the Senate rejected it.

Both of these arrangements make for international peace. One has been rejected by the Senate: it remains to be seen what is the fate of the other.—Evening Post.

TAX DODGING

W. P. Walton in Lexington Herald

Tax dodging seems to be confined to no state or locality. The executors of a wealthy decedent at Boston left out of the inventory nearly sixteen millions of property through the neat device of distributing the estate to themselves as trustees prior to April 1, 1909. This the corporation counsel thinks was not a legal distribution and deprived Boston of $274,116 in taxes, which should have been rightfully received, and steps will be taken to recover.

The Post makes the statement that if Boston could collect all the taxes due her, there would rarely be need of bond issues. If she could collect half, her tax rate would take a sudden drop and everybody would be benefited. It is the same way here and nearly everywhere. Lexington would be on Easy Street if everyone would give in his property correctly to the assessor instead of swearing to an inventory by no means complete. If the sin of tax dodging is punished as other sins, we fear that a large number of people will suffer severely hereafter in a land that is hotter than this.

W. H. Gibson, of Holt, who advertises a sale in The News this week wants to come to Cloverport to live and it is impossible for him to get a house. Can't the Cloverport Real Estate and Improvement company get busy? There is a scarcity of houses and a demand for them in our city. We hope there will be ways and means made to supply the needs of the new comers.

Barksdale Hamlett, candidate for Democratic nomination for State Superintendent of Public Instruction, was in Cloverport and Hardinsburg Saturday in the interest of his race. We like Mr. Ham-lett, and, unlike most politicians, he improves on acquaintance. In fact, he is not a politician, he is a school man and a man who is well equipped for the office.

We were complimented with the annual "Snowflake" brochure from the J. W. Butler Paper Co., of Chicago. The book is a work of art, excellently printed, and we are proud to have a copy if it in our shop. "Snowflake" is one of the Butler brand of papers and is famed for its excellence.

From the number of offers we are getting to place ads in The News in exchange for silk lustre hose and fine spring fabrics, some Eastern houses evidently know that it pays to advertise but they do not want to pay for the advertising.

The Democrats in Congress are going to see to it that no murderer sits as a member of that body. So Caleb Powers will probably go back home, and there will be another election in the eleventh Kentucky district.

Luke Lea was elected United States Senator by the Tennessee Legislature. He is thirty-two years old and will be the youngest member in that august body. He is not only young, but a prohibitionist.

Governor Willson has said some pretty hard things against the officers of Shelby county, over the action of the mob there, but the officers there were not altogether to blame.

The last thing a man can afford to do is to get mad—you never can tell, the way this old world wags, whom you will have to ask a favor.

Down at Hooptown, Illinois, the Mayor is paid a salary of fifty cents a year, and the members of the Council twenty-five cents each.

The estate of the late Senator Elkins is valued at twenty million dollars.

The Pennsylvania grafters have returned $2,595,740 to the state.

STORIES WRITTEN

While The Press Thunders

BY LOUISE

He is dead. David Graham Phillips. He was a newspaper man and an author. He died in New York a victim of F. C. Goldsborough, an eccentric musician, who shot the novelist Tuesday for a fancied grudge and then suicided.

This tragedy was the result of a morbid imagination. The assailant's motive is generally accepted that he imagined himself and his family depicted unfavorably in one of the author's novels.

An unhappy imagination is the worse affliction a man or woman can possess and though it may never lead many to a fate like Goldsborough's, it can wreck a person's happiness and usefulness. Some persons will read articles in newspapers that fit their cases so well, that they imagine the writer meant the articles personally for them; others will not go to church because they imagine their clothes are not good enough; in a thousand little ways people make themselves miserable by imagining that which never happens. And the only cure for this habit is happy thinking, always picturing the best side and think of the other fellow what you want him to think of you.

David Graham Phillips interested us because he was a journalist—and a splendid one. His first book, "The Great God Success" was a newspaper story. He too, drew on his imagination about the horrible things of life, but he did it kindly and with a motive to show men and women the error of pretense and sham. He had a big heart, his style of writing was so full of grace and charm. We are glad that David Graham Phillips lived and worked on a newspaper, and that he knew success before he died.

o o o

Charlie Fallon is one man you can't fool. If you ever lived in Pinchecoe a day and spent the rest of your life in New York, Charlie could tell you spent that day in the bushes. He always knows when a person who leaves the country and stays a while in the city, gets "set up." "They come back dressed up and wearing glasses—nose glasses with chain attached", he explains. One day a woman who had been traveling some came in Noite's and Charlie remarked politely to her, "you had to put on glasses while away, didn't you?" "Yes," answered the home-comer, "they are good glasses but they hurt my eyes."

o o o

Indifference to men in the long run is surely a winner. There is a young lady known to many in Cloverport, who has been almost a "man-hater". And now she has a man "crazy" about her. Three or four weeks she was totally in different to him, although they met in the dining room of their hotel twice a day, sat at the same table, she wouldn't even offer to hand him the biscuits. One day the strange man turned over the strange girl's cup of coffee. He was very sorry and apologized. She assured him that was all right and smiled. "Indifferent, but nice!" that's the way she impressed the fellow.

And Cupid has been busy ever since. Really he will break his neck if "The Strangers" do not tie up by June.

Louisville Market Report

Louisville, Jan. 31.—Cattle—The receipts were 1,658 head. There was a fairly good attendance of buyers in the pards, but everyone seemed to realize that there were enough cattle here to go around and remembered the fact that all other markets closed lower last week, and the trade was slow and dull from start to finish, with lower prices in vogue. The butcher cattle trade was dull and a shade lower than the close of last week, or 15¢ to 20¢ lower than the best time a week ago today; medium and inferior kinds particularly dull. There was a fairly good inquiry for good feeders and stockers, but at lower prices, and the medium and common trashy stock cattle were very dull at 25¢ to 40¢ lower. Bulls steady; canners dull and lower. Milch cows slow. Not many heavy cattle here; prices mostly 10¢ to 15¢ lower. Pens only fairly well cleared and the market closed slow.

Quotations—Choice export steers $5.75@6; shipping steers $5@5.75; beef steers $5.50@6; cutters $2.50@3.50; canners $1.50@2.50; bulls $2.75@4.75; feeders $5@5.50; stockers $2.75@5.50; choice milch cows $3.50@4.50; medium to fair cows $1.50@3.50.

Calves—Receipts 132 head. The market ruled slow; best 8¢ to 8½¢; medium 6¢ to 8¢; common 2½¢ to 6¢.

Hogs—Receipts 3,142 head. The market ruled firm and 5¢ higher; selected corn-fed hogs, 220 pounds and up, $7.80; 165 to 220 pounds $8; 165 pounds down $8.15; roughs $7.40 down. All sold and the market closed about steady.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts 132 head. The market was firm and a shade better. The best fat sheep 2½¢ to 3½¢; medium and common 1¢ to 2½¢. Butcher lambs 5½¢ to 6¢; medium and culls 3¢ to 5½¢.

POULTRY AND EGGS.

Louisville wholesale dealers' buying prices are as follows:

Butter—Quiet; packing 12¢ to 13¢.

Eggs—Steady; case count 18¢ to 18½¢; candled 19¢.

Poultry—Hens 12¢ lb.; roosters 7¢;

young chickens 11¢ to 16¢; ducks 13¢; turkeys 15¢ to 17¢; geese 10¢.

LEAF TOBACCO.

Today's offerings on the local auction breaks amounted to only 100 hogsheads—32 new Burley and 68 new dark. The market showed no change as compared with the close last week. Heavy offerings are in prospect tomorrow.

The Pickett house sold 15 hogsheads of new Burley at $5.50 to $12.50 and 24 new dark at $6 to $10.75; market good; no rejections.

The Kentucky house sold 6 hogsheads of new Burley at $5.05 to $8.40 and 25 new dark at $6.50 to $12.50; market unchanged; 1 rejection.

Women's Lefts.

Miss Birkley—So you have given up advocating woman's rights?

Miss Passcoe—Yes; I now go in for women's lefts.

"Women's lefts? What's that?"

"Widowers."

 J. V. Hinton, who lives near Kirk, says he had in this year one and a half acres of tobacco on which he raised 2,100 pounds. He sold it for $7 round. The field hadn't been cultivated before in 18 years, showing that old fields will do their duty if they have the proper attention. Mr. Hinton is a fine farmer, and makes money every year, and does so on land that was once considered worthless.
 Dr. J. B. Frymire was in Hardinsburg Monday.
 Geo. Lyddan's wheat field is showing up beautifully; so is Jonas Lyons'.

 Thos. Withers was at Glen Dean Monday delivering his crop of tobacco.
 Glen Dean was run over with tobacco last Monday. The town was full of wagons and many of them had to stay overnight. Moorman, Howard & Co. and Ernest Robertson, the buyers had all they could do. The farmers were all satisfied with prices.

THE MAN FROM GERMANY

Came to Cloverport over a Century Ago. Stood Behind the Anvil Sixty-two Years. Organized a Brass Band During the Civil War

If you are a "leetle boy"—or a grown-up one, sometime when playing down on the river bank on the upper side of the creek, go up to that blacksmith shop and ask that man, whose hair is snow white, to tell you of when he saw King William of Germany, long, long time ago! He used to wade in the River Rhine where Napoleon crossed with his great army. And if you will stand around while he is feeding his chickens, he will tell you many interesting stories of his life—because the first time his mother sang him to sleep was in Prussia—not many days after August 12, 1836—his birthday.

LEARNED TO STEAL FIRST.

Before he knew his A. B. C's, he knew how to steal. One day he was walking through a prune orchard, he was hungry and stole some prunes. And the great big policeman, who was watching the orchard for the rich owner, wanted to arrest him and he said he would lose his job if he didn't. But the little thief's mother pleaded for him—and a mother's plea, you know, can do many wonderful things for her son. That happened over a half century ago and this old man tells the story of his first lesson as if he learned it yesterday.

SALES FOR AMERICA.

When he was seven years old his parents took a ship for America and were forty days and forty nights coming to New Orleans. Henry Jacob May, then in his heart became a citizen of the United States and today, he and John Krouch, of Rome, Ind., are the only two left of the thirty families of the old county who settled at German Ridge, Ind.

This little German chap, whom every body called "Jake," was not under the red, white and blue flag long until he was left an orphan and fell into the care of Thos. Hanna, for whom Mr. May has a loving memory. He stayed at his home in Indiana, worked on his farm three years and went to school three months each year—just nine months was his only schooling, but he has read the bible through three times.

COMES TO CLOVERPORT IN 1854.

At the age of eighteen years he came to Cloverport from Cannelton and began his business career. He chose the trade of blacksmith because, he said, a blacksmith can stay at home and the world will come to him. Seven years he was in the mercantile business and kept every thing from a mustard seed to a silk dress. At one time he accumulated $25,000, and now he says he has $50,000 coming to him. "If I had all the money I have made, two mules could not haul it away"—said Mr. May.

Mr. Brickey's Luck
 Frank Brickey one of the most progressive and industrious farmers in this community had a streak of tough luck last season, having lost twenty-five acres of corn, two tons of hay, one horse and one and one half acres of Tobacco. Northwithstanding this he will bring to town this week between four and five thousand pounds of the red weed.

ADVICE TO A YOUNG MAN.
 "My advice to a young man in the business world is to go slowly, steadily—a rolling stone gathers no moss—to loan no one money, don't take stock in a company unless you have enough money to choke all the other stock holders out" advised Mr. May seriously.
ORGANIZED A BRASS BAND.
 At the opening of the Civil War he organized a brass band that cost him $1000. He gave Wallace James, the teacher $50 a month. The members were: John and Court Babbage, Chas. Walters, John Wesley Allen, Jesse Wright, Lou Pate, Jim and Sam Hambleton, Lane Woods and Columbus Beasley. "We had a great time for four years. Once our band was playing Dixie, and Gen. David Murray's mother tried to pull the horn out of my mouth, but she didn't," laughed Mr. May.
WAS SURE YOUNG ONCE.
 Mr. May said when he was a young fellow that dancing was his chief delight—danced all night and would shoe horses all the next day. A game of cards was always a joy to him. He never played for money, but once he won thirty-six turkeys and thought he was going to have many days of feasting, but his wife wouldn't cook a single turkey. This was the first disappointment "Rebecca" gave him, and he says if he had listened more to her in regard to many things, he would have been far better off today.
THE SECRET OF HAPPINESS.
 Mr. May says the best happiness is not the good luck that comes to you, not unexpected riches, but pleasure that you make yourself. "My greatest pleasure is standing behind the anvil where I have been sixty-two years. I would rather blacksmith than smoke". As he said this he pulled out a pipe that Mr. Murray brought him from Germany.
WANTS TO LIVE ON.
 "I want to live always, Cloverport is God's foundation", remarked Mr. May. He enjoys his children and is proud of his grand-children, but his "baby"—(Raymond)—is the joy of his heart!
 The last few days Mr. May has not been able to leave the home of his daughter, Mrs. Alvin Simons, but he does not look ill. He has a twinkle in his eye that shows he has life—much of it in him—at the age of seventy-five.
 Not one bit of pessimism, nor malice, nor envy leaks out in his little chats, and makes one see that years can drop all that is not lovely, that old age is an untarnished honor.

 Camp Hill, Ala., Aug. 16th, 1909.
 Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.
 A year and a half ago I was taken with a severe attack of kidney trouble that pained me to such an extent that morphine had to be given me. Was attended by a doctor who pronounced it as stone in the bladder and prescribed Lithia Water. I took Lithia Water and tablets for some time and received no relief from them. I stopped taking medicines for some time and having some of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root in the house, I decided to try it and felt much relieved; while taking the second bottle commenced to pass gravel in urine until I had passed in all at least a half a dozen or more and have not suffered the slightest since and in all have taken one bottle and a half and feel very grateful to Swamp Root.
 Yours very truly,
 H. W. Spinks.
 Personally appeared before me this 16th of August, 1909, H. W. Spinks, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that same is true in substance and in fact.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA
 Lula Glaser's Opera
 The story of "The Girl and the Kaiser," in which the Messrs. Shubert will present Lulu Glaser and a large company at the Shubert Masonic Theater, February 8 and 9, is based on an incident in the life of the Austrian Emperor, Josef II., when he met a pretty girl in the royal game preserves and again discovered her in Vienna in time to save her sweetheart from execution as a deserter from the army. There is a definite and constant plot, stronger and more healthy than the average operetta plot; let it be said to the credit of "Die Forster Cerist", under which title "The Girl and the Kaiser" ran for a long time in Austria and other European countries.
NOTICE
 Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Trustees of the Cloverport Graded Common School District No. 1, until March 15, 1911, for furnishing all material and labor to build a wall across a certain portion of the Public School lot, according to the plans and specifications on file in the office of the undersigned Secretary of the Board. Bids will be received for the construction of said wall, either with stone laid in cement, or for concrete of proper mixture. Board reserving the right to reject any or all bids.—Marion Weatherholt, Secy. Board of Trustees.

CHAPTER V.

AS his secretary left the room to procure Valentine Warden Handler glowered darkly at the door that closed behind him and through which No. 1289 was to be unwillingly brought. He would show this man who had dared to talk to the lieutenant governor that Billy Handler was the boss of Sing Sing prison and no one else, even lieutenant governors to the contrary. Discipline must be preserved. Yes, that was it—the old explanation that always held good when a prisoner who offended the warden in any way was meted out the vengeance that the warden would not be denied. Once there was a thin chested, cough racked little election inspector "doing three" for crooked work at the polls who had had his front teeth kicked down his throat because he would not shine the warden's shoes. As for this sick Mr. Valentine, he was altogether too independent, too, and the warden would give him the lesson of his life. He would—

The door opened, and in came Smith, holding Jimmy Valentine by the arm. The warden stood at his desk. "Bring him over here!" he cried hoarsely, pointing to the space in front of his desk.

The secretary slipped his hand up behind the prisoner's neck and with a violent heave flung Valentine forward so that he was barely able to prevent himself from falling flat on his face. Gritting his teeth, No. 1289 straightened himself and finally succeeded in suppressing the impulse that surged within him to spring at his cowardly assailant's throat. Probably it was the realization of the fact that he knew himself to be more than an equal for Smith in a hand to hand conflict that enabled him to restrain himself—the contempt of a strong, confident man for an ignoble inferior.

Smith was larger and heavier, yes, but the man who had hip locked the burglar Cotton and had thrown him headlong to his death from the window of a rushing railway train was not one to be trifled with. Besides, no less a personage than George Bother, the world's lightweight wrestling champion, had taught Valentine the mysteries of the "grapevine," the "cross buttock," the "Cornwall heave," the "flying mare," the "back heel," the rib crushing "scissors," the waist and crotch holds and even the tortures of the deadly strangle holds, front and rear.

Handler bent over his desk, resting both his hands upon it, and sneered at Valentine.

"Why didn't you smash him when he hit you, you coward?" he asked the helpless prisoner in purposely aggravating tones. "You're losing your nerve in this little boarding house of mine; that's what's the matter with you. You haven't any manhood left in you. And, say, Valentine, when we have had you here as our guest two years more you'll be whining around like a puppy with the pink eye; that's what you're coming to. It's bound to get you—this life—just like it gets all the rest of you thin skinned guys. Only a bum can live this life and keep his mind and his manhood."

The cruel words of the warden sank deeply into Valentine's soul, as Handler well knew they would. But the prisoner was determined that he would show no signs of weakening before the two men who hated him.

"I didn't hit him because I'll square myself when I get out," answered Valentine defiantly, "and there are a few little things that I will square with you, too, Mr. Warden Handler. You know you have me in your power, and so do I. But, Handler, you're going to like me better from now on because, realizing my position, I have dared go against you."

But Valentine had mistaken his man. The respect that one fighting man has for another who fights him squarely found no place in the craven heart of Billy Handler. Valentine had yet something to learn of the psychology of jail wardens. Handler's face took on a malignant expression. "Oh," he sneered, "so I'm going to like you, am I? Well, just watch me. I'll burke you, you!"

Handler lunged around the corner of his desk at the prisoner.

"Don't burke me!" cried Valentine desperately.

Eyes gleaming with his vengefulness, with hands outstretched, the warden came headlong at Valentine, who braced himself to withstand the shock of the oncoming body. Crouching, the prisoner primed himself to clutch one of the warden's thumbs, which was carelessly extended outward from his hand—a trick Bother had shown him. Once securing this thumb, it could be pulled back or twisted to the breaking point if necessary to cause an opponent to yield, or by drawing the outstretched arm over his shoulder, wheeling his back to his foe as he did so, Valentine could bend sharply forward and throw his assailant helplessly over his head and on to the floor in a heap with the disconcerting "flying mare."

But midway in his rush the warden stopped short. He had caught himself just in time. About to throw himself blindly at his intended victim, a thought (an inspiration he afterward considered it to be) dashed through his brain. The warden halted, much to the amazement of his secretary, Smith, who had been watching the proceedings with unconcern born of experience in like happenings. Then Handler turned away, rested one hand on his desk and with the other stroked his heavy, square chin reflectively.

"God!" he pondered. "Suppose the lieutenant governor should get on to those deals in the contracts for supplies? He might, and then I'd need him to be my friend."

Handler reached out, picked up a box from the desk and extended it to the now thoroughly thunderstruck convict, who was slowly recovering from the mental strain of the last few moments. "Have a cigar," smiled the warden graciously, with a sweeping bow. "Also permit me to offer you a chair, Mr. Valentine."

"By the way," he went on easily, "are you perfectly comfortable in your cell? If not, I want to know what I can do for you. I'm going to have Smith go to see you every day to do for you anything that you want, provided the rules of the prison permit, and maybe some things they don't."

Valentine, hardly believing what his eyes and ears told him actually to be occurring, dropped bewilderedly into the proffered chair and, taking a gilt banded Havana from the box, stuck it eagerly between his lips.

"Have a light," said the warden, striking a match and extending it to the end of Valentine's cigar.

The secretary stood across the room near a door, eyes staring in his wonder as No. 1289 leaned back luxuriously in his chair, crossed one striped leg over the other and sent fragrant clouds of blue smoke toward the ceiling.

"This'll be a regular Y. M. C. A. before we get through," he gasped. "I think I'll apply for a job as worsted holder for some old maids' sewing society. This prison is getting altogether too genteel to suit me."

When a young lad of good parentage and of sound training and education begins to chafe under the restraint of parental discipline it is time for the parents to exercise the wisdom got only from the lessons taught in the great school of the wide, wide world.

Theories and principles expounded ever so convincingly will not keep the growing boy at home after 7 o'clock in the evening when there is a chance to escape into the streets to meet the "bunch," the alluring, versatile bunch whose plans so often include the annihilation of the Sioux warriors of the Dakota plains who have laid down the tomahawk to take up the agency clay pipe and store clothes.

That is to say, theories and principles merely will not suffice to restrain the impulsive, imaginative, action craving youths unless the parent combines with them enough knowledge of the world to convince the half formed, half trained youthful mind that the mentor has the best interests of the lad in mind, that he has been through it all himself and knows full well the joys and disappointments, the fears and hopes of early days.

And it is the habitually stern, optimistic, unyielding and academic parent who convinces the young lad that he knows nothing of the fascinating temptations of boyhood. The spirit of compromise is allowed to perish by such a parent; the spirit of rebellion grows in the son's heart; a spirit nourished on the decay of the respect and love thrust aside by the father who would not understand.

A certain lad of sixteen years found life in his New England home far more circumscribed than was that of his companions of the same age and same comfortable position. He was not allowed to go swimming in the lake because his young friend Tommy Clark had narrowly escaped drowning. The fact that Tommy Clark could not swim and was "taking a dare" on that memorable occasion when he verged on death near the county line road bridge and the fact that the lad we are considering could swim very well made no difference to the father as well as to the mother. The son must keep away from the water. That was final.

The further fact that this boy aspired to be a mining engineer made no difference to this father or to this mother. It had already been decided for him that he must study for the ministry.

Three years passed. The lad was in college. The study of theology did not suit his temperament or his desires. He wanted, above all things, to go out into the world of action, to battle with the might of the strong man he was becoming against big, tangible odds; out in the open air under the open heavens, down in the bowels of the earth or wherever there were mines to be dug and equipped and operated. He wanted to study the problems that faced the men who decayed the glistening ores from secret Mother Earth, and he thrilled with the idea that he could succeed in this profession.

He sat in his room in the college dormitory one morning and wrote his father, that he could not continue his study for the ministry; that he wanted above all other things in life to enter the school of mines at the university.

He waited five days. The answer came. The same night there were a vacant room and a vacant bed in the dormitory. Next morning came a search. Under a table was found a crumpled note that the tears of the lad had blurred as he read. The letter was taken to the president of the college. When this gray haired gentleman adjusted his spectacles he pressed the paper flat on his desk and read:

"If you do not continue your course in theology I will cease to pay your bills at college. Should you discontinue them you must return home, where I will secure you a position as bookkeeper at your uncle's store."

Signed to this eloquent, brief epistle was the name of the young man's father.

Several years have passed since that crumpled letter was picked up from the floor of the college student's room. Several years have passed since an aged couple, soon to elope out their meed of existence in a small country town, have heard news from the son who would not become a minister.

Several years have passed since a young college student appeared penniless and discouraged in a middle western city and vainly walked the streets for days subsisting as best he might.

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Home of Swamp-Root, Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on each bottle.

Woman's Danger Periods Made Safe

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Here is proof:

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the Change of Life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold. I had creepy sensations and could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I had a tumor."

"I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it has worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish this letter."—Mrs. Nathan B. Groaton, 51 No. Main St., Natick, Mass.

Cornwallville, N. Y.—"I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for some time for Change of Life, nervousness, and a fibroid growth."

"Two doctors advised me to go to the hospital, but one day while I was away visiting, I met a woman who told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and I know it helped me wonderfully. I am very thankful that I was told to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Wm. Boughton, Cornwallville, N. Y., Greene Co.

The makers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have thousands of such letters as those above—they tell the truth, else they could not have been obtained for love or money. This medicine is no stranger—it has stood the test for years.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

in search of any kind of work that strong hands and arms could perform.

So there should be tempered judgment shown, say I, in dwelling on the present fate of Jimmy Valentine when it is considered that he was the ambitious lad who left the crumpled note lying on the floor in his bedroom and set out to fight the world single handed.

That Jimmy should have lost in his first grapple with life should afford no reasonable person ground for reproach. Those of us who have not lost as yet quite humanly perhaps incline toward comparisons which favor our own acknowledged virtues, but at the same time the environment of our fellow beings at critical periods in their lives should always be remembered when the final estimate is made. It is human to have human emotions. It is human to have inhuman ideas concerning some of our fellow men at various times; but, after all, why not adopt the optimistic philosophy of Jimmy Valentine himself? For was it not he who at the time "Frisco Eddie" bungled the "inside job" of a safe looting expedition in Omaha sought to soothe the latter's feelings by saying sympathetically:

"Nobody is a failure until he admits it himself. You will never admit you're a failure, Eddie, so cheer up. You, therefore, can never be one."

Consequently Jimmy Valentine must be given a chance. His doctrine is the doctrine of hope. Give him a chance to apply it to himself and await unconcernedly and dispassionately the result.

If he succeeds in making a man of himself, a man such as his Creator intended him to be, who is there to say that his past has anything in it to concern a critical world? Or who is there to deny to Jimmy Valentine his birthright if he should miraculously redeem it?

But should he fail in the great test—well, perhaps no word should just now be sent regarding him to the old home in the little town, to the father and the mother who would not understand.

CHAPTER VI.

THE weeks dragged slowly on for Jimmy Valentine after the momentous day when Rose Lane and Lieutenant Governor Fay visited the prison—weeks of wonder, weeks of hope, weeks of despair.

He concluded that the girl had forgotten him; that her interest in him had been but the evanescent manifestation of a fleeting impulse. Probably "Izzy" Snedden was right after all. Izzy, doing a bit of four for burglary, seemed to know a great deal about women, and he had assured Valentine that "a girl don't know what it means to keep her word, not that she don't mean to, but she just naturally talks so much that she can't remember half what she says."

The lieutenant governor, too, had apparently forgotten about the existence of No. 1289, and Valentine began deeply to wish that his hopes had never been aroused. Far better never to have risen to the heights of expectancy at all than on attaining them to be thus rudely cast from them.

But Valentine had not realized how slowly move the executive wheels of the government of a great and busy state. A governor is held to a strict accountability for his official actions, and in the important matter of the pardon of a man convicted to state prison for a felony haste is entirely out of the question. And it was one day when Jimmy Valentine had lost every vestige of confidence in Rose Lane and her uncle and in the lawyer whom he had retained that hurried footsteps resounded down the cell corridor. A paper, a glorious paper bearing the seal of the Empire State, was flashed before his eyes.

"You are pardoned!" came the welcome announcement. "The governor has released you!"

In one of the parlors of the Ten Eyck hotel, in Albany, within two short blocks of the capitol, Mrs. Webster and Mrs. Moore sat patiently waiting.

"You don't suppose Mr. Valentine would feel uncomfortable in coming to meet our party in a nice respectable place like this, do you?" asked prim little Mrs. Moore of her coworker in the Gate of Hope society.

"No," was the positive response. "That young man wouldn't feel uncomfortable or embarrassed anywhere in the world. This is the first victory for the Gate of Hope, Mrs. Moore, and I trust your report will be such as to encourage others to join us."

"It will be exact, Mrs. Webster, of that you may rest assured. By the way, do you not think we should have had a few reporters here to give public notice of our first triumph?"

"Your report, my dear—we will send that to all papers," and Mrs. Webster smiled proudly as she spoke.

A messenger boy came in with a note from Valentine, who had come to Albany to thank the governor for his release and to meet the people who had worked to secure him his pardon. The note, written from the governor's executive chamber, notified the ladies that he would be with them in fifteen minutes.

Rose Lane and her father, William Lane, an Illinois banker, came into the parlor and greeted the two ladies, who informed the newcomers that Mr. Valentine would shortly arrive. Declining the invitation of Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Webster to join in light refreshments in the tea room on the mezzanine floor, Rose and her father remained in the parlor, while the two ladies departed.

Rose had not seen her father for months, and on his arrival in the east she persuaded him to accompany her to Albany to assure the governor that if he pardoned Valentine he would guarantee him a good business position. It is more than probable that this attitude on the part of a man of Mr. Lane's standing in the financial world had something to do with the final determination of the executive to sign the release papers. It tended to confirm in the governor his belief in the prisoner's innocence. Mr. Lane and his daughter had waited overnight in Albany after the granting of the pardon to meet the released prisoner, who was coming to the capital for the purpose already mentioned.

Rose, absolutely positive of her one time rescuer's innocence, had made a proposal to her father regarding the future of Jimmy Valentine. Her father, tall, well built, with beard and brown hair streaked with outcroppings of gray, smiled indulgently upon her. He had agreed on her account to place Valentine in a good salaried position, but as yet he had doubts as to whether he dared to secure for the ex-convict exactly the employment the girl demanded for him.

"Now, sit down and listen, dad," the girl said, crossing to a sofa. "But, Rose, this is a most desperate thing to do—pick up an ex-convict and put him in a bank," Mr. Lane protested.

"Is he an ex-convict if he was convicted unjustly?" argued the girl. "Didn't Uncle George say he was innocent?"

"Not exactly. He said there was a chance that he might be."

"But the governor pardoned him."

"Guiltily men have been pardoned." The girl would not be gainsaid.

"But I want you to give this man a chance, dad—a good chance. He risked his life once to save me from insult." She patted her father's shoulder pleadingly and affectionately.

"I know; I know," declared Mr. Lane. "And you must see him." Rose was becoming fearful of the end.

"Oh, I'll see him, of course, but to put him to work in the bank—why, Rose, it seems like flying in the face of Providence."

"Dad, doesn't it mean anything to you that I want it done?" Tears began to gather in the girl's eyes.

"Why, of course," relented the father. "Your mother left you 40 per cent of the bank stock, and that alone would make me listen did you see fit to even ask it, but who knows about him, and suppose it became known who he was and what he had done?"

"I've thought of all that, and I want you to risk it, and my 40 per cent wants you to risk it."

"And your heart, Rose?" The father's keen eyes searched the young girl's beautiful face.

Rose returned his glance calmly. "Yes," she cried, rising and meeting her father's eyes unflinchingly with her own. "I've known men who thought they were heroes all my life, who talked of themselves and bored me to death. And one day from a clear sky, when I was struggling in the arms of a bear-eyed brute who beat me if I dared move a hand, this man came."

"There was no glare of bugles or anything but utter courage. He made the ruffian leave me. His voice was low. I could scarcely hear what he said, but there was a note of command and a threat of death in it, and the brute disregarded it, and he mastered him, a beast twice his size. He fought silently and killed him. And all my life that man owns me."

Mr. Lane was only half startled at the open declaration of his daughter of her admiration and gratitude for and sentimental interest in the ex-convict Jimmy Valentine. His trained intuition had already told him that she was more than casually concerned in the fate of this mystifying young man, whose record was apparently so bad and whose personality and ambitions were certainly impressive in their good qualities. Truth to tell, Mr. Lane was considerably disturbed at the situation, but he determined to accept it philosophically for the present and to watch carefully the future development.

"Rose!" the father exclaimed as the girl concluded her statement. While he had realized her attraction toward the released prisoner, he had not guessed of the depth of her feeling for him.

"It's no good to be shocked, dad," answered the girl. "It's true. And then he went to prison on the death rattle of a beast like that, and I'm going to make it good to him if he's a man. And he is; every drop of my blood tells me so."

"And you don't even know his name?"

"Yes, I do."

"He gave you one, I know, but even that?"

"Well, what of it? Does a name mean anything to real men and women? No. The one comes—the one in all the world—and, well—that's all there is to love."

A pause ensued. The father was first to speak.

"Do you think he knows how you feel?" he asked sympathetically.

"No, nor he never will—unless you some day—believe him—worthy of me."

"You promise that?" relievedly.

"I promise, dad."

"Will you wait until I see the governor, Rose? Let us go to see him and ask his opinion of the matter."

"Gladly, and he will believe in him, I know," said the girl enthusiastically. She heard a step behind her, and she turned.

There, with his hat in his hand, well groomed and wearing a well cut suit of brown clothes—light brown, the fashionable color—there stood Jimmy Valentine.

"Mr. Valentine!" exclaimed the girl. "Miss Lane, how do you do?" stepping quickly forward, extending his hand.

"This is my father." She presented Valentine to Mr. Lane, who welcomed him pleasantly.

Further conversation by the three was interrupted by the entrance of Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Webster, returning from the tea room. Mr. Lane and Rose departed to go to the governor's chamber, and the two members of the Gate of Hope society and Jimmy Valentine seated themselves.

"And now, Mr. Valentine, concerning your future," began Mrs. Webster, "what do you contemplate doing?"

"Get a position."

"We have already arranged that for you, Mr. Valentine," announced Mrs. Moore complacently.

"That is very thoughtful, ladies, but—"

"Mrs. Moore did not exactly convey the entire facts," interjected Mrs. Webster.

"No?"

"We have a choice of three positions for you, Mr. Valentine," went on Mrs. Webster. "One is in a grain elevator."

"Yes," smiled Valentine. "I can imagine that would be a safe place for one under suspicion of robbing a bank."

The ladies failed to detect the veiled note of sarcasm.

"The second," informed Mrs. Moore, "is as a bookkeeper or checker in a scrap iron yard."

"Still under suspicion, I see," commented Valentine dryly.

"And the third as the first male officer in the Gate of Hope society," Mrs. Webster proudly declaimed.

"Yes," agreed the other charity worker.

"Treasurer?" the ex-convict queried significantly.

"No; secretary!" both the ladies cried simultaneously.

"I hold that honored position now," resumed Mrs. Moore, "but were you willing to accept it we would pay a salary. We agree that your knowledge of the—the—"

THERE STOOD JIMMY VALENTINE

"The inside," suggested Valentine.

"Exactly—would be a great help to us."

"Doubtless."

"Then you accept, Mr. Valentine?"

"No, ladies," decisively.

"You refuse the position?"

"Yes, ladies. In fact, I decline all your positions."

The Gate of Hope representatives rose and assumed expressions of extreme indignation at the unexpected repulse and refusal of their well meant but ill advised offers.

"Ingratitude!" they exclaimed.

Valentine, who had deprecated their advances because of their evident mistrust of him in spite of his pardon, as shown by the nature of the positions they had offered him, resolved on a course of action that would, he thought, dispose of them and at the same time afford him a long craved amusement.

"No; please do not say that," he protested elaborately. "No, no. I refuse the positions you offer me because I fear the world would misunderstand."

"What do you mean?" asked one of the ladies.

"Oh, you see," went on Valentine whimsically. "If I accepted help from you ladies the world might say that you—or you were in love with me!"

"Oh-h-h!" ejaculated the astonished ladies.

"Let the world say what it dare!" proclaimed the pedantic little Mrs. Moore, lifting her chin defiantly.

"And so goodbye, my dear ladies," said Valentine, bowing almost to the floor.

With anger in their glance and their walk, chins and noses pointing almost toward the ceiling, the two members of the Gate of Hope society stalked out of the hotel parlor.

Jimmy Valentine, chuckling in his amusement, sank into a chair to await the return of Miss Lane and her father, Miss Lane—Rose Lane—the girl who had saved him from the horrors of that "bit of ten" at Sing Sing. How beautiful she was, he murmured. She had a heart. And she cared something for No. 1280; that was apparent. Just how much did she care? Just what did she care? If a man lived straight he might in time win such a girl for his own. Yes; that was life. And Jimmy Valentine now had his chance to "go straight," he reasoned. Stranger things had happened. The girl had revealed already, had she not, that she knew a prison sentence could not kill the good in a man if a single germ of it yet lingered in him? The old life was behind him now. The future gleamed bright and beckoned him on. Never again would he—

"Jimmy! Jimmy!" A harsh whisper hissed its way into his ears.

Jimmy Valentine started up in amazement. That voice, that whisper! He had not heard it since the night the Hartford "bulls" had broken up that midnight surprise party in the vaults of the Fifth National bank.

Hardly believing his ears, hardly daring to turn, yet he did turn, and he saw, crouching half behind one of the red velvet portieres of one of the hotel parlor entrances, the figure of Red—the face and the brick red hair of Red Flanagan, his old time coworker.

Starters of Good Roads.

If highways are an evolution from the primary paths made by animals and men, the first roadmakers did not make their paths straight certainly, and many a road today is a monument to the leaders in roadmaking of the long ago. Nevertheless it is said that some animals, the buffalo especially, were pretty fair engineers. They had an eye for grade, which cannot be said of some of their successors. In the west engineers hunting pathways for railroads are said to have largely followed buffalo trails.

SWISS HAVE ELASTIC ROADS.

Tar Coated Gravel Proves Inexpensive, Lasting and Noiseless.

An interesting experiment has been made with promising results at Zurich, Switzerland. Fine gravel, the grains averaging from one-twentieth to one-tenth of an inch in diameter, the whole carefully freed from earthy substances, was coated in a revolving drum with tar. These pellets were then carefully dried and hardened and after eight or ten weeks were spread during dry weather in a thick layer upon a prepared roadbed and rolled.

The road thus formed is inexpensive, possesses a certain elasticity and is said to withstand well the effects of heavy traffic. The desirability of a slightly elastic road for saving wear and tear and suppressing noise is evident.

Railroad Built Quickly.

An eighty-nine mile railroad in North Carolina, in the construction of which no wood was used, recently was completed and opened for service in fifteen months from the time work was started.

Fossils and Gold.

In Alaska the bones and often the entire bodies of extinct animals, such as the mammoth, the mastodon, the reindeer and the bison, are found most abundantly in layers of soil directly above gold bearing gravels. So intimate is this association between fossil animal remains and auriferous deposits that one scientist who has explored Alaska says fossils serve prospectors as indexes of the metallic richness of the soil. In ancient times both gold and the bones of animals were deposited at the bottoms of valleys by action of rivers and smaller streams, many of which have now disappeared; consequently the appearance of fossils is, it is claimed, an almost certain indication that gold will be found in the neighborhood. The cabins of many miners are ornamented with huge tusks and antlers unearthed in the diggings.—New York Tribune.

Cures baby's croup. Willie's daily cuts and bruises, mama's sore throat, grandma's lameness.—Dr. Thomas' Eucalyptic oil—the great household remedy.

Value of Good Highways.

Good roads are the most valuable asset a county can possess. Every farm within their operation is largely increased in value. The farmer is closer to his markets, his church and to the city. The conveniences and pleasures of country life are enhanced tenfold.

When her child is in danger a woman will risk her life to protect it. No great act of heroism or risk of life is necessary to protect a child from croup. Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and all danger is avoided. For sale by all dealers.

Didn't Like the Suit.

"Sir," said the young man as he entered the library for the purpose of interviewing the father of the only girl. "I am in love with your daughter. Have you any objection to my suit?"

The old man looked the y. m. over from head to foot.

"I sure have," he replied. "Why, I wouldn't wear a misfit suit like that to a dog fight. Why don't you try some other tailor?"—Chicago News.

Graves in China.

There are various kinds of graves in China. The graves are dug generally from twelve feet to thirteen feet below the ground, while, according to an old custom, the mounds of the graves of emperors were thirty feet in height, those of territorial lords fifteen feet and those of barons without territories and of lord stewards eight feet, while for inferior officials and common people mounds only four feet in height were erected. Pines were planted or the tombs of emperors, a species of oak on those of territorial lords, a species of willow on those of barons and lord stewards and elm trees on those of inferior officials. Although there are no territorial lords and lord stewards now in China, men of high rank still have their tombs constructed in accordance with this old custom.

PAY ROLL IMMENSE

The American Factory Paid To Employees Last Week $8,-490--Turned Out 1,020 Hogsheads Last Week.

NEW RECORD IN REDRYING.

Probably the largest weekly payroll in Owensboro by any corporation or concern, was the one paid by the American Tobacco company to its employees for the past week's work. The factory is at the present time employing between 800 and 900 people who received the sum of $8,490.

The American factory is running at full capacity, every department being filled. It would be very interesting to one to follow a load of the weed to the many departments of this large plant. In the drying house, where work goes on both night and day, it is necessary to use a shift of men. One thousand and twenty hogsheads of tobacco were redried in this department during the past week, amounting to over 1,000,000 pounds. This is by far the largest amount of hogshead tobacco that has ever been redried in one week in Owensboro.

In all probability, the factory will continue to run in full operation all the year, excepting a few weeks in the summer, at which time repairs will be made to the plant.—Owensboro Enquirer.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

B. F. Keith's Mary Anderson.

"The Top O' the World Dancers" with the original "colleie ballet," which was the feature extraordinary of the musical comedy of that same name, have been secured as the headline attraction of the new vaudeville bill at B. F. Keith's Mary Anderson Theater, Louisville, starting with Sunday matinee, February 5th. This act is hailed as one of the most pretentious dancing ensembles ever seen on the stage. The "colleie ballet" consists of six thoroughbred Scotch shepherd dogs. There and the twelve nimble and comely dancers will present "Kris Kringle's Dream," a musical comedy divertissement that will please both old and young alike. An extra attraction on the bill will be "The Police Inspector," a dramatic incident based upon the application of the "Third Degree." A company of five players will be seen in this sketch. Wynn and Jennings are popular musical comedy stars who have been seen in various successful vaudeville sketches; They have a humorous concoction called "Daffydils." Miss Irene Hawley, "The Manhattan Girl," who will offer her quaint fun songs, is also a recruit from the comic opera field. Baptiste and Franconi will enliven the program with their comedy acrobatic novelty. This team hails from the Folies Bergere, Paris "Lem Put," the European singing clown, will offer a series of humorous impersonations and imitations of various sounds. Palfrey and Burton are unique cycling comedians, and new motion pictures will be shown by the Keithscope.

Around Our Shop

The month of January has been a busy and happy one for the Breckenridge News, especially in our print shop. When press thunders and the electric lights are aglow and all the machinery in running order, it is joyland!

A new engine has been placed in the office by the Cloverport Foundry—A four-horse power, and our old friend—a fifteen horse power, is taking a rest. It almost hurts an engineer's feelings to see the little engine run the big press, but it is doing the work O. K.

The boys have been cleaning up the shop and Mr. Ben Cozine who is said to have the cleanest print-shop in Kentucky, will soon have a rival.

With a new looking-glass and a clean towel, we have been able to turn out some mighty pretty job work during the last few weeks.

F. Leibovitz & Sons, of Lewisport, have just had a 1000 envelopes of the "mail order" linen made.

The Bank of Glen Dean sent in an order for 2,000 statements which was filled promptly.

Ten thousand counter checks were printed in a good style for the Bank of Hardinsburg & Trust Co.

"The hardest thing to keep track of is time" said Mr. Will Pate, who had a most convenient time table printed for the Cloverport Foundry.

One would be surprised to know how much printed materials W. B. Ashby, of the Highland Nursery, uses. A new supply of stationery etc., has just been printed for him.

Roy J. Cain, of Irvington, had an attractive folder entitled, "Burley tobacco from plant bed to market" printed. This he has advertised for sale.

The News had one thousand subscription receipts made this month and the way the circulation is increasing, there is a good prospect for another printing of this form soon.

A. G. Ditto, of West Point; Nollie Ashley, of Glen Dean; George N. Lyddan, of Irvington; Jas. J. Burke & Co., and C. W. Aldridge, of Mook had a supply of excellent stationery printed.

The Lewisport Mill Company sent in an order for 2,000 statements.

The towns have had their annual printing done; Stephensport had 200 warrants printed, Glen Dean 300 town warrants, and a tax receipt book was printed for Cloverport.

The Two States banks are always sending orders for printing matter and in January 1000 enclosure blanks and 2000 envelopes were made for them.

Cloverport Citizens Gladly Testify And Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Kidney Pills so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Cloverport citizen:

Price Graham, Railroad St., Cloverport, Ky., says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as a remedy that lives up to representations. For four years I suffered from disordered kidneys and the secretions from these organs were too frequent in passage, obliging me to rise several times during the night. Whenever I caught cold it was sure to settle in my kidneys and greatly aggravate my trouble. My back ached severely and when I stooped I was seized by sharp twinges through my loins. The ache in my back at night greatly disturbed my rest and in the morning I arose feeling lame and sore. I was very nervous, the slightest work tired me and I often felt dull and languid. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Fisher's Drug Store, relieved me in a short time and it required but the contents of four boxes to effect a complete cure. I can state that this cure has proven permanent and it therefore gives me pleasure to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other person's afflicted in a similar manner."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Chas. Wigginton & Co., big poultry dealers, had 3000 produce blanks made and are very convenient for them.

The Pittsburg Coal Company, of Spottsville, had a job of special printing done.

J. C. Emmick, proprietor of Lewisport Electric Light Plant, had an order of business cards made.

Professional men and business women are were fully realizing every day the value of high grade printing matter. They are demanding that their stationery be the best in design and quality and are seeking the print shops that can provide both. The art of printing has been mastered in the Breckenridge News print-shop and specimens are gladly sent on request. Prices and samples of printed matter can be had for the asking, and it will be a pleasure to receive your orders.

The Toad's Tongue.
The skillful manner in which a pet toad used its wonderfully formed tongue entitled it to be ranked as an expert. For one thing, it showed wonderful skill in judging distances. The tongue was never darted out until the insect came within a certain range. The accuracy of the creature's aim was another matter for surprise. The insects were generally in motion when the tongue was darted out against them, but the arrow never failed to hit. The rapidity with which the tongue was shot forth excited much wonder. The operation is a complex one. The tongue is doubled or folded up when in the mouth. Therefore a twofold action is required, an uncoiling of the weapon and then the darting of it forth. The withdrawing of the tongue with the captured insect on the tip was not less remarkable. Notwithstanding the rapid motion, the fineness of the tongue tip and the struggles of the prey the victim was never dropped.—Exchange.
